Module 5: Digital Citizenship & Human Rights in the Age of Disinformation

Monday, February 10 at 7pm ET

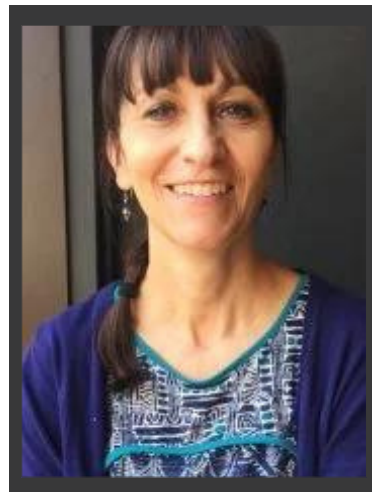

SUMMARY

This module aims to support participants in navigating the intersection between human rights and technology. Participants will understand digital citizenship and using technology for human rights defense, be prepared to hold difficult conversations about the use of technology with youth, and strategize how to combat misinformation.

OBJECTIVES

- Define digital citizenship and common forms of disinformation/misinformation
- Explore strategies for promoting positive digital behavior and using the internet to be a “digital defender” of human rights
- Discuss the relationship between human rights, artificial intelligence, and truth and justice
- Practice facilitating conversations with youth on ethical considerations and responsibilities in using social media and digital tools
- Develop an action plan for youth encountering and sharing misinformation
